Message From The Chair

The Cowichan Valley Regional District spans from the Nanaimo Airport in the north to the Malahat in the south, and from the west coast of Vancouver Island to Valdes Island in the east. It includes 9 Electoral Areas and 4 Municipalities, working together to deliver 178 services to more than 89,000 residents.

Each year, the Board's job is to balance cost with the services people rely on every day. Services like emergency response, water and sewer, recreation, waste management, environmental protection and community services.

This year, the Board set a clear direction to keep tax increases as low as possible. This budget was the result of a collaborative effort between elected officials and staff, going through services one by one to find savings while protecting the service levels our communities depend on. It required careful decisions on where we could adjust and where we could not.

We continue to face ongoing pressures: population growth, aging infrastructure, increasing costs passed down from other levels of government, and the need to set aside reserves for future infrastructure upgrades. Being pragmatic now, and saving for what we know is coming, helps avoid sharper tax impacts down the road. These pressures are not going away, and we will continue to advocate for fair support from senior governments.

Our focus remains the same: keep communities functioning, plan responsibly for the future, and be transparent about the choices in front of us.

If you have questions or feedback, we encourage you to reach out.

Sincerely,

Kate Segall, Chair of the CVRD Board of Directors

Tim McGonigle, Vice-Chair of the CVRD Board of Directors
